

Miss Doris Haywood, daughter of Mrs. William Haywood, and well-known in Honolulu. Miss Haywood visited here a few months ago and was very popular in society circles. Mrs. Haywood and her daughter have been residing at The Highlands, Washington, D. C., until recently, when they moved to their own home, which had been occupied by Senator and Mrs. Hitchcock of Nebraska. The Haywoods have been keeping open house. Their friends here learn that there is a possibility they will visit Honolulu this fall.

THE LARGEST and prettiest affair of the week was the wedding of Miss Eda Margaret Arthur and Mr. Charles Fredrick Schmutzler which took place on Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Barnes in Maunaloa Valley. The pretty bungalow had been made into a veritable fairy land for the occasion. The drawing room, where the ceremony took place, was decorated in white and green. A screen of daisies and vines formed a background for the temporary altar. On either side were clusters of tall, essentially bridal flower, the ascension lily, in silver vases and baskets. Other silver baskets were filled with white tulips and hung in the windows and archways. Feathery bamboo, vines, palms and other tropical foliage were used in profusion with ever the recurring note of white tulips and ascension lilies in bowls and baskets to proclaim a wedding fête.

In the library a dainty rose color scheme was carried out from the most delicate shade of pink to a brilliant American beauty. Pink shower cascaded around the sides of the room and in baskets knotted with pink tulle. Bowls of waxy pink begonias were charming in their tropical daintiness. Vases of American beauty and Jacqueminot roses added the last beautiful touch.

The Mathew Graham house, adjoining, where refreshments were served, was handsomely decorated with golden shower and bamboo, the colors toning beautifully with the yellow tapestry paper and finishing of the rooms. The two houses were linked together with strings of electric lights while everywhere were strung Japanese lanterns of all colors.

The decorations were under the artistic management of Miss Maude Martin, assisted by Mrs. Wilbur MacNeil, Mrs. Barnes and Miss Delice Stone. At half-past eight a double quartet composed of Miss Elizabeth Woods, Miss Ruth Soper, Miss Elsie Wichman, Miss Ruth Anderson, Miss Thelma Murphy, Miss Helen McLean and Miss Marguerite Wadman, all of Punahou, sang the bridal chorus from Rosemaiden. Almost immediately after, as they chanted the ever familiar strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the bridal party entered. The procession was led by little Miss Marjory Atherton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Atherton, and Master Donald Guild, small son of Mr. and Mrs. George Guild, who acted as ribbon bearers. They held the ends of broad white satin ribbon from which a dainty shower of white and green flowers cascaded, and as they moved toward the altar they formed an aisle through which the rest of the bridal party passed. Miss Marjory was dressed in a sweet little frock of white batiste and lace, caught with soft pink bows. Little Master Donald wore a white Norfolk suit.

Miss Florence Carter, the maid of honor, was dressed in a beautiful frock of corn colored charmeuse draped with white and gold chiffon, bought up here and there with dainty pink roses. She carried a shower bouquet of delicate pink Cecile Bruner roses and ferns.

The bride came next in order in the procession. She was stately in her gown of cream colored embroidered just (pronounced "husie") cloth over charmeuse. The dress was made en traine, the bodice being cut with a square neck with garnitures of Duchess lace. The dress was finished with trimming of pearls. Her veil was made with a cap à la Breton caught on the head and on the hem of the skirt with orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a lovely necklace, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses and ferns.

At the altar she was met by Mr. Schmutzler, attended by Mr. Ernest Chase, of Punahou, as best man, and the Rev. Doremus Scudder, who performed the ceremony that made them man and wife. A short reception then followed, their many friends showering them with congratulations and good wishes for the future. During this time, Miss Dawson, of Detroit, rendered several selections on the violin, which were highly appreciated by the guests. A beautiful touch was added by the singing of Kawaihau girls who sang out of doors with the true spirit of a midsummer's night's romance. After the reception, the guests adjourned to the Mathew Graham house where a delicious supper was served. Mrs. Palmer of the Pleasanton catering. The bridal party remained to cut the wedding cake and to drink to the health of the happy pair. The bouquet was then thrown and caught by Miss Ruth Johnston. Later in the evening the bride and groom escaped but not before they were thoroughly pelted with rice. The bride went away in a smart white suit of serge. Mr. and Mrs. Schmutzler are spending their honeymoon at Balgowa. After a few days they will return to town, setting up their household gods in one of the little cottages on Oahu College campus.

Among the gowns seen at the wedding was that of Mrs. K. B. Barnes.

Miss Katherine Woodford Honored.

At an informal luncheon given at the Country Club on Thursday, Mrs. Arthur Hodgins was hostess for five. Miss Katherine Woodford, who sailed this morning on the Sierra for a year's visit in Europe, was the guest of honor. Others present were Miss Gwendolen Blair, Miss Louise Lucas and Miss Barrie Gamble. The decorations were of white and pink with maidenhair fern. After luncheon the time was spent over dainty needlework and a rubber or two of auction bridge.

Dr. and Mrs. Hodgins' Dinner.

A very delightful dinner was given by Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Hodgins on Thursday night for Dr. and Mrs. Clifford High, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thompson. The affair took place at their attractive residence on Green street. Dainty pink roses and maidenhair fern formed the centerpiece, while other accessories were pretty and appropriate. After dinner the party attended the Nordica concert at the Opera House.

Dinner at Fort Shafter.

Captain and Mrs. Walter Johnson entertained at dinner Thursday night for Captain and Mrs. Lincoln and Major Smith. The table was prettily decorated for the occasion with cut flowers and maidenhair fern.

Mrs. Robertson's Musicale.

More than a hundred ladies were present on Wednesday afternoon

Long. The Boston Globe of June 4 says:

"One of the most beautiful and sumptuous weddings Boston has seen in years took place last evening at the Hotel Somerset, when Miss Julia Davis Long White of Winchendon, was married to George I. Brown of Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands."

"Miss White is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Zadoc Long White of Winchendon and grandniece of Ex-Gov. John D. Long. Mr. White is interested in a number of cotton manufacturing enterprises in different sections of the country. The groom is a son of Mrs. C. S. Holloway of Honolulu, whose first husband was Charles Augustus Brown of Worcester."

"The wedding, which was witnessed by about 50 friends, took place in the big ballroom at the Somerset, which was so transformed with floral decorations that those most familiar with it could hardly have recognized it."

"Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham of Arlington-street church officiated, and the bride and groom used a 'prie-cleu' decorated with white ribbon. The best man was Webb E. Beggs, of Terre Haute, Ind.; the maid of honor was Miss Lina Wellington Grant of New York city and the ushers were the bride's brother, Kenneth B. White; her cousin, Joseph N. White of Fitchburg; the groom's brother, Francis H. I. Brown of Honolulu, and Edward Skinner, who lives at the Somerset."

"The bride was given away by her father. She wore a gown with court train, of white satin and real lace, with a veil of tulle and real lace combined. She had orange blossoms in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley. She wore a diamond bracelet, a gift from the groom."

"The maid of honor was attired in pink satin and chiffon, trimmed with little clusters of pink artificial rosebuds. She carried on her arm a basket of pink roses."

"The groom's mother being in Honolulu, she was represented by a lifelong family friend, Mrs. C. M. Hyde, of Ware, who assisted the bride and groom, the bride's parents, the best man and maid of honor in receiving. The bride's mother wore white satin and lace, and Mrs. Hyde wore black satin and lace."

"Among the guests were Ex-Gov. Long, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph White of Fitchburg, with their daughters, the Misses Winnifred, Madeleine and Rachael White, and their son, Mr. Nelson White; Mr. and Mrs. Charles White of Norwich, Conn., and their daughters, Misses Margaret and Mary White; Ex-Gov. George R. Carter of the Hawaiian Islands; Dr. Walter Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Breed of Lynn, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cobb of Brookline, Miss Helen Durbin, Mr. Benjamin Pitman, Mr. Frederick Krug, Miss Florence Wittemore of Elmira, N. Y., and Baron Di Rosa."

"Mr. and Mrs. Brown are to pass a year in foreign travel and will then make their home in Honolulu."

when Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson was hostess at a delightful musicale at her home on Makiki street. The affair came as a refreshing change from the routine of large parties and teas which have been so numerous and unrelieved of late. An excellent program in both quality and scope has been arranged and it would be difficult to state which numbers were the most appreciated by the enthusiastic audience. After the concert generous contributions were received for the new Catholic chapel that is being erected on Wilder avenue. Delicious refreshments brought the afternoon to a pleasant close. The musical program was as follows:

Green and White Luncheon.

A very pretty luncheon was given at the Moana hotel on Wednesday by Mrs. Baldwin, mother of Mrs. James Kennedy of Fort Shafter. A green and white color scheme was carried out in every detail from the centerpiece of white carnations and maidenhair fern to the dessert of white lemon ice deluged with green creme de menthe. After lunch the guests devoted the afternoon to auction bridge, the prizes—green morocco leather, guest books—going to Mrs. Kay and Mrs. G. H. Jamerson. Those present were Mrs. Jamerson, Mrs. Kay, Mrs. W. Wooten, Mrs. B. Watkins, Mrs. Margart, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Gibson.

Luncheon at Country Club.

Taking advantage of the summer weather and cool breezes at the Country Club, many people have entertained at informal affairs at this popular resort. Among these was a very charming luncheon on Thursday when Miss Hewlings was hostess for five. The table was prettily adorned with waxy pink begonias and maidenhair. The guests brought their sewing and after luncheon the time was devoted to needlework. At tea the party was joined by Mrs. Bergerin. Those present at the luncheon were Mrs. Will Wall, Miss Morrison, Mrs. Robert Catton and Miss Renny Catton.

Inaugural Recital.

An unusually fine recital was given at the Union church, Walluku, last Saturday night. The new organ, which has recently been installed in honor of the memory of Mr. H. P. Baldwin, was the motif of the occasion, over two hundred people gathering to listen to its wonderful tones. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and lilies, the sweet fragrance of which was a fitting accompaniment to the haunting music of the organ. Vocal and violin solos were also thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

Leave for Home in Honolulu.

Mrs. Manton C. Mitchell (Kathleen Carroll), accompanied by her baby son, who have been the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Carroll, in their Irvington home this winter, left this afternoon for San Francisco, whence they will sail Thursday on the Transport Thomas for Honolulu; H. I., where Lieutenant Mitchell is stationed at Schofield Barracks—Portland, Ore., Telegram.

Graduating Dance.

The class of 1913 of Oahu College were hosts at large and very enjoyable dance on Monday night at the Moana Hotel, to celebrate their graduation. Pennants—big pennants, little pennants, middle sized pennants, fat pennants, thin pennants, tall pennants, short pennants, all sizes and shapes and colors of pennants—were used lavishly for decoration combined with potted palms and bamboo. A committee composed of Miss—Eloise Wichman, Miss Ruth Soper and Miss Thelma Murphy, assisted by Mr. Francis Cooper had charge of the decorating and the success of their efforts was fully testified to by the numbers of enthusiastic people present. The dance programs were long slender linen cards, the flaps of which were caught back with the class seal. About three hundred guests in all—officially chaperoned by Mrs. George Sherman, Mrs. Gustave Schuman, Mrs. Will Campbell and Mrs. R. W. Anderson. A refreshing supper was served toward midnight.

Nordica Concerts.

Of course, the events of this week are the Nordica concerts at the Opera house. All society, clad in its latest Parisian frocs, turned out to attend on Thursday, an equal number planning to present this evening. The enthusiasm displayed by everyone is sufficient tribute to Madame Nordica without further eulogiums to her wonderful voice, yet it must be said that never has Honolulu heard a singer with such rare sweetness of tone and volume, whose charming personality enhanced to such a degree the beauty of her singing. Although this week Mme. Nordica has been keeping very quiet, saving herself for her concert engagements, a number of things have been planned for her by members of the smart set.

Senor de Arana's Tennis Tea.

Senor Ignacio de Arana, the Spanish consul, entertains in a very delightful way when he has his friends in every Wednesday to an informal tennis tea at the Moana Hotel courts. This week his guests were Miss Nora Swamy, Miss Rosamond Swamy, Miss Ward, Miss Betty Case, Mr. Spalding, Lieut. Carl Bostrom and Lieut. W. Rose. Many an exciting set of tennis was played by these enthusiasts followed by a comforting cup of tea and toothsome sandwiches. The affairs are more than popular as Senor de Arana makes a delightful host with his Spanish hospitality.

Dinner at the Courtland.

Capt. and Mrs. Davis of the army who are located at the Courtland entertained at a very attractive dinner on Thursday night, pink carnations and maiden hair made a very dainty centerpiece while pink carnations painted by hand on linen cards marked the guests' places. After dinner, the evening was devoted to royal auction, without a rubber or two of what no party seems complete these days. Among those present were Col. and Mrs. Appel, Col. and Mrs. Reynolds, Capt. and Mrs. Owen and Capt. and Mrs. Lister.

Fort Shafter Bridge Club.

Mrs. Roe was hostess at the home of Mrs. B. Watkins for the Fort Shafter bridge club on Thursday of this week. A delightful afternoon was spent by the members over the intricacies of royal auction, Dame Fortune smiling on Mrs. Margart and Mrs. W. R. Gibson to the extent of the first and second prizes. Among those present were Mrs. Bell, Mrs. L. O. Mathews, Mrs. Margart, Mrs. Boothe, Mrs. Frederick Cooke, Mrs. W. R. Gibson, Mrs. A. E. Schlanzer, Mrs. Benjamin Watkins, Mrs. Kay, Mrs. Robert McCleave and Mrs. Walter Johnson.

Mrs. Alfred Castle's Luncheon.

One of the many informal affairs this week was the luncheon given yesterday by Mrs. Alfred Castle at her home in Nuanu Valley. An attractive centerpiece of cut flowers and ferns was the only decoration. The guests were Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Mrs. J. W. Waldron, Mrs. S. R. Robertson, Miss Grace Robertson and Miss Pauline Schaefer.

Lieut. and Mrs. Cooke's Dinner.

Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick Cooke are hosts at a very attractive dinner, this evening in honor of Lieut. and Mrs. F. Jackson, new arrivals at Fort Shafter. Other guests are Miss E. P. Cooley, Capt. and Mrs. Gibson and Major Williams. After dinner the party will attend the fortnightly hop at the post.
